

OPPORTUNITY TO BE INVOLVED AS A RESEARCH BUDDY

Do you have lived experience of mobility challenges?

Edith Cowan University's Nutrition and Health Innovation Research Institute (NHIRI) is actively seeking to connect with older people who have lived experience of mobility limitations or older adults who are about to face these types of challenges.

What am I expected to do?

We are looking for Research Buddies who can:

- Attend quarterly meetings with researchers and potentially other consumers.
- Review and provide feedback on research proposals and other documents to support the development of research projects and co-design interventions that suit the needs of older people.

What skills or experience do I need?

We are looking for Research Buddies who:

- Have lived experience of mobility limitations such as difficulty getting around or challenges with walking or standing.
- Are living with a chronic condition that might lead to these types of mobility challenges.
- Have an ability to respectfully share your experience, opinions, and perspectives.

A $37.50 per hour honorarium is offered to successful applicants.

If have questions or are interested in learning more:

Contact Dr Marion Mundt at m.mundt@ecu.edu.au

Find out more:

